Comments concerning draft rulemakings

While drilling oil and gas wells in TX, operators, in conjunction with the RRC of Texas and Texas Water Board, have protected aquifers successfully for decades. As the current regulations have not failed the industry or the public, and since science substantiates there is no need for increased temporary pit regulations that could economically cripple the already declining number of long-term, small operators in Texas, please vote against Rule 8. Allow science, a proven record and common sense to prevail in Texas. Thank you.
